And google-map Panoramic Highway (Mill Valley, Calif), Pantoll Ranger Station (Mt. Tam State Park) 'cos that is where you will leave your car---it's 2 miles of dirt road into the Inn and you will be pedaling it with your kit strapped on your bike (or left in the car...there is a $9 per night carparking fee). If you drive it's only about 25 miles from San Francisco. Or, ride from SF (about a 4 hr. ride) or Fairfax (a three hour, ten mile, 2400 ft elevation ordeal, er, jaunt).

West Point Inn, Mt Tam Lodging at a hundred year old inn reached only by bicycle or foot means evening silence (only the sound of a banjo and much merriment). Pack a sheets & a flashlight, wine if you want it! Only 10 guests per session.

There is gas-lighting in the main lodge, for that perfect ambiance. It is very special, and the kitchen is impressively set up for a certain wombat chef to strut her stuff (with your help doing the chopping and the dishes).

it's only about 25 miles from San Francisco...
